MARKET REVIEW

London Commercial Real Estate Market Overview

During the Period, the commercial real estate leasing market in Central London demonstrated commendable resilience and operational strength, operating against the stabilizing macroeconomic conditions, stable regional interest rates and sustained occupier demand.

Strong Occupier Demand and "Flight-to-Quality"

Occupier activities across Central London accelerated significantly over the Period, driven by increased corporate confidence and a pronounced "flight-to-quality". High-quality, modern and ESG-compliant office developments accounted for the vast majority of the leasing transactions.

The market experienced a robust surge in major lettings and pre-let agreements as corporate occupiers sought best-in-class office spaces to meet environmental targets, support workplace return strategies and attract top-tier talents. Demand was overwhelmingly led by the technology sector – particularly driven by rapid expansion among artificial intelligence (AI) firms – alongside with strong, consistent leasing activity from financial services, professional advisory and insurance institutions.

Constrained Supply and Rental Growth in Core Markets

Available Grade A and Grade B office supply across core Central London districts remained highly limited throughout the Period. Tightening availability, combined with a disciplined development pipeline, pushed vacancy rates in key commercial hubs down to well below historical averages.

Consequently, sustained competition for premier assets resulted in upward momentum in rental rates across Central London.

Market Divergence

A defining feature of the Central London commercial market during the Period was the widening divergence in performance between legacy Grade C buildings and modern Grade B or Premier assets:

- Grade B and Premier Assets: Buildings offering modern specifications, strong Energy Performance Certificate ("EPC") ratings, and updated amenities captured the majority of market demand. Occupiers prioritized Grade B or higher assets to satisfy corporate sustainability mandates, meet elevated workplace expectations, and secure long-term operational efficiency. These properties benefited from high tenant retention, stable occupancy levels, and sustained rental resilience.

- Grade C Assets: Conversely, legacy Grade C buildings faced escalating pressure. Properties with secondary energy ratings and obsolete facilities experienced structural vacancy risks, longer marketing cycles and downward pricing pressure. Landlords of Grade C assets increasingly faced the imperative to commit capital towards significant refurbishment and green retrofitting – such as upgrading central plant infrastructure to achieve Grade B or higher EPC standards – to restore asset competitiveness and avoid obsolescence.

BUSINESS REVIEW

During the Period, the Group continued to actively manage its core property investment asset (the "UK Property"), focusing on enhancing asset value, maintaining stable occupancy and improving energy efficiency to meet modern occupier standards in Central London.

Active Leasing Management and Tenant Retention

To optimize lease yields and maintain strong cash flow, our designated property managers have been proactively engaging with both prospective and existing occupiers:

- Lettings and Vacancy Management: The property management team has actively marketed the currently vacant floorplate. Market feedback from prospective occupiers has been consistently positive, reflecting strong demand for high-quality office space within the submarket.

- Lease Renewals & Early Securitization: With a major cluster of tenancy agreements scheduled to expire in the third quarter of 2027, the Group has already initiated early lease renewal negotiations. Discussions have been on good progress. Notably, as at the date of this announcement, the Group has successfully executed a new 5-year lease renewal with a major key tenant occupying one and a half floors, securing stable long-term rental income and significantly reduce the risks of the near-term lease expiry profile.

Comprehensive Asset Enhancement Initiatives (AEI)

To reinforce the building's market competitiveness and align with current ESG expectations, the Group has embarked on a systematic asset enhancement program:

- On-Floor Refurbishments Completed: Major refurbishment works on the office floorplates were successfully completed during the Period. The modern updates present a fresh, high-specification appearance to current and prospective tenants, directly supporting our ongoing leasing efforts.

- Communal Area Upgrades: Renovation works across the building's communal and shared public areas are currently underway. These enhancements are targeted for completion by the first quarter of 2027, aiming to elevate the overall arrival experience and tenant amenities.

- Central Plant Renewal & EPC Upgrade: Enhancement works on the central mechanical and electrical plant have officially commenced. This major infrastructure overhaul is scheduled for completion by mid-2027. Upon completion, these works will optimize operational energy efficiency and upgrade the building's EPC rating from Grade C to Grade B, ensuring full compliance with upcoming environmental standards and boosting the long-term capital value of the asset.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

The Group had achieved a profit of approximately HK$92 million for the Period (Prior Period: approximately HK$384 million). It was mainly attributable to the fair value gains on financial assets at FVTPL resulting from the increase in share price of certain listed securities investments during the Period.

Revenue from continuing operations

During the Period, the total revenue was approximately HK$29 million (Prior Period: approximately HK$29 million). The leasing revenue remained unchanged over the periods because there was no substantial change in the composition of tenants and occupied space during the Period.

Fair value gains on financial assets at FVTPL from continuing operations

During the Period, the fair value gain of approximately HK$171 million (Prior Period: approximately HK$10 million) arose on financial asset at FVTPL. Fair value gain achieved was mainly due to the increase in share price of certain listed securities investments held by the Company during the Period.

Other gains, net from continuing operations

During the Period, other gains, net was nil (Prior Period: approximately HK$460 million). Other gains, net in Prior Period was mainly derived from the gain on disposal of a subsidiary amounted to approximately HK$801 million and the loss on disposal of an associate amounted to approximately HK$317 million.

Administrative expenses from continuing operations

During the Period, the administrative expenses were approximately HK$25 million (Prior Period: approximately HK$55 million). Among the administrative expenses incurred during the Period, approximately HK$4 million was legal and professional fees (Prior Period: approximately HK$28 million) and approximately HK$12 million were related to staff costs (Prior Period: approximately HK$13 million). The administrative expenses of the Period was lower than the Prior Period because additional legal and professional fees were incurred for the refinancing exercise of the UK Property in the Prior Period.

Finance costs from continuing operations

During the Period, the finance costs were approximately HK$75 million (Prior Period: approximately HK$41 million). The increase in finance costs of approximately HK$34 million was resulting from the increase in interest cost since the refinancing of the UK Property in September 2025.

LIQUIDITY, FINANCIAL RESOURCES AND CAPITAL STRUCTURE

As at 30 September 2026, the Group's current assets and current liabilities were approximately HK$573 million (31 March 2026: approximately HK$427 million) and approximately HK$216 million (31 March 2026: approximately HK$187 million) respectively.

The Group has established a treasury policy with the objective of lowering cost of funds. Therefore, funding for all its operations have been centrally reviewed and monitored at the Group level. To manage the Group's exposure to fluctuations in interest rates, appropriate funding policies will be considered, including the use of bank and other borrowings and corporate note payables. The management will continue its efforts in securing the most privileged rates and favourable terms to the Group for its financing.

Gearing ratio

The Group monitors its capital structure based on the gearing ratio. This ratio is calculated as net debts divided by total capital. Total capital is calculated as "equity" as shown in the consolidated statement of financial position plus net debts. The capital structure (including its gearing ratio) as at 30 September 2026 and 31 March 2026 was as follows:

	As at 30 September 2026 HK$'million (unaudited)	As at 31 March 2026 HK$'million (audited)
Bank and other borrowings	847	788
Corporate note payables – at amortised cost	395	395
Total borrowings	1,242	1,183
Less: cash and cash equivalents	(69)	(126)

Total equity	629	454
Total capital	1,787	1,492
Gearing ratio	64.8%	69.6%

The borrowings with aggregate amounts of approximately HK$807 million (as at 31 March 2026: approximately HK$748 million) carried fixed interest rates, approximately HK$40 million (as at 31 March 2026: approximately HK$40 million) carried floating interest rates.

As at 30 September 2026, cash and cash equivalents and pledged bank deposits were denominated in the following currencies:

	HK$'million
HK$	56

BUSINESS PROSPECTS

Looking ahead to the second half of the 2026/27 financial year, the Group maintains a disciplined and proactive outlook for its commercial property investment segment in Central London. While global macroeconomic uncertainties and shifting work patterns continue to shape occupier strategies, the office market of Central London is demonstrating clear signs of structural stabilization, supported by sustained demand for high-quality and sustainable office spaces.

Capitalizing on the "Flight-to-Quality" Trend

As market divergence deepens between legacy buildings and modern assets, the Group's future strategy is designed to position our London property portfolio within the upper tier of market demand. The ongoing AEI – including the completed on-floor refurbishments, upcoming communal area upgrades, and the central plant renewal targeted for completion by mid-2027 – will serve as pivotal growth drivers. By successfully upgrading our building's EPC rating from Grade C to Grade B, we directly address corporate occupiers' stringent sustainability requirements, ensuring our asset remains highly attractive, resilient and competitive against new market entrants.

Securing Long-Term Cash Flow and Capital Value

Leveraging on the successful execution of early lease renewals – including the recent securing of a 5-year lease term with a major key tenant, the management will maintain an assertive lease management strategy for the remaining tenancies maturing in 2027. The Group will actively engage with existing and potential occupiers to secure long-term commitments, minimize lease roll-over risks and protect net rental yields.

Prudent Capital Management and Asset Resilience

Supported by stable recurring rental streams and a well-structured debt profile following our property refinancing initiatives, the Group possesses the financial flexibility required to execute our planned capital expenditure program without compromising liquidity. Moving forward, the management remains committed to maintaining strict financial discipline, optimizing operational costs, and continually monitoring market trends in order to unlock the intrinsic capital value of our property portfolio, thereby delivering sustainable, and long-term returns to our shareholders.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE CODE PRACTICES

The Company is committed to maintaining good corporate governance practices and procedures that are consistent with the "Corporate Governance Code" (the "CG Code") set out in Appendix C1 to the Listing Rules.
