CHARACTERISTICS OF THE GROWTH ENTERPRISE MARKET (“GEM”) OF THE STOCK EXCHANGE OF HONG KONG LIMITED (THE “STOCK EXCHANGE”)

GEM has been established as a market designed to accommodate companies to which a high investment risk may be attached. In particular, companies may list on GEM with neither a track record of profitability nor any obligation to forecast future profitability. Furthermore, there may be risks arising out of the emerging nature of companies listed on GEM and the business sectors or countries in which the companies operate. Prospective investors should be aware of the potential risks of investing in such companies and should make the decision to invest only after due and careful consideration. The greater risk profile and other characteristics of GEM mean that it is a market more suited to professional and other sophisticated investors.

Given the emerging nature of companies listed on GEM, there is a risk that securities traded on GEM may be more susceptible to higher market volatility than securities traded on the Main Board and no assurance is given that there will be a liquid market in the securities traded on GEM.

The principal means of information dissemination on GEM is publication on the Internet website operated by The Stock Exchange. Listed companies are not generally required to issue paid announcements in gazetted newspapers. Business Overview

During the third quarter of 2004, the Group benefited from the stable economic growth and the growing demand for outdoor advertisements in both Mainland China and Hong Kong. The Group's turnover reached HK$99.8 million and its net profit amounted to HK$6.4 million for the third quarter. The Group achieved growth of 21% in both its revenue and net profit for the third quarter of 2004 compared with the second quarter of 2004. The Group achieved a net profit of HK$13.1 million for the nine months ended 30th September, 2004, of which HK$16.1 million was generated from its Mainland China operations and HK$2.6 million was generated from its Hong Kong operations both before deduction of unallocated corporate expenses totalling HK$5.6 million.

Mainland China continues to be the core market of the Group. In the third quarter of 2004, the Mainland China market accounted for 87% of the Group's turnover. The Mainland China government imposed certain macro-economic control measures to adjust the pace of economic growth in Mainland China during the first half of 2004. These control measures have had no immediate and material impact on the Group's business so far. Nevertheless, the management will cautiously monitor the effect of the control measures on the Group's business on an on-going basis.

There is increasing demand for advertising in metro systems as the advertisers find that metro advertising is a more cost-effective medium compared with other outdoor advertising media and is a good channel to prolong the promotion effect from more expensive TV advertising.

In view of the continued profits from the Group's metro media, the Group considers that it is strategically important to develop a nationwide metro advertising network to meet the increasing demand from its customers for cross-city advertising. In July 2004, the Group secured advertising rights for an 18 year term to the Nanjing Metro Line 1 (Phase 1) which is expected to commence operation in September 2005. The metro is expected to have 16 stations stretching from Maigaoqiao to the Olympic Sports Centre passing through Nanjing Railway Station, Gulou and areas with a high density of population.

The Group is now the only metro advertising media network provider offering long-term and exclusive metro advertising spaces in Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, Nanjing and Hong Kong.

For the bus media, the Group enlarged its market share in the bus advertising market in Shanghai early this year by securing exclusive advertising rights to, in aggregate, over 5,000 bus bodies. The Group now dominates the bus advertising markets in Shanghai, Nanjing, Chengdu and Chongqing and covers some prime routes in Beijing, Guangzhou, Dalian and Wuhan. The Group's turnover from its Mainland China operations increased by 36% for the nine months ended 30th September, 2004 compared with the corresponding period last year.

Benefiting from the improving economy and growing advertising spending, the Group's Hong Kong operations are improving continuously. In Hong Kong, the Group focuses on metro advertising on the Airport Express Line and billboard advertising at profitable prime sites, including the Cross Harbour Tunnel, large billboards in prime areas, rooftop neons, tram shelters, piers and unipoles. The Group's turnover from its Hong Kong operations increased by 10% and net profit increased by 39% in the third quarter of 2004 compared with the second quarter of 2004.

As at 30th September, 2004, the Group had over 56,900 advertising spaces in Mainland China and Hong Kong.

Outlook

The economic growth in Mainland China is continuing and consumer spending in Mainland China has continued to grow. The phenomenon of consumerism in Mainland China has led to intense competition between brands. In order to promote their brands to target customers and to differentiate their brands from their competitors, local brand owner as well as international brand owners have been increasing their spending in advertising and have commenced longer term and nationwide brand building campaigns in the Mainland China market. The Group is expecting to benefit from the increasing awareness of the effectiveness of advertising and the speedy growth of advertising spending.

The securing of the advertising rights to the Nanjing Metro Line 1 (Phase 1) and to the Shanghai Metro Line 4 further strengthened the Group's metro media portfolio which covers five metropolitan cities of China, including Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, Nanjing and Hong Kong. The Group is now the largest metro media provider in China. The Group will put more focus on development of its already secured media in the coming year.

During the year, the Mainland China government imposed certain macro-economic control measures in order to adjust the pace of the growth of some over-heated industries and such control measures will continue in the foreseeable future. In October 2004, in order to further adjust the pace of the growth of economy, the People's Bank of China raised interest rates for the first time in nine years. The Group considers that the continued control measures and the rising interest rates may, to some extent, have an impact on the Group's business in the periods ahead.

As for the Hong Kong market, the economy has gradually recovered in 2004 bolstered by the influx of tourists from Mainland China. The Group will continue its cautious approach on expansion in Hong Kong and may seek to identify and assess profitable opportunities in the rebounding market.

Treasury Policies

The Group adopts a conservative approach towards its treasury policies. The Group strives to reduce exposure to credit risk by performing ongoing credit evaluations of the financial conditions of its customers. To manage liquidity risk, the Group closely monitors the Group's liquidity position to ensure the liquidity structure of the Group's assets, liabilities and commitments and to ensure that the Group can meet its funding requirements.

The Group's assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses are mainly denominated in Hong Kong dollars, United States dollars and Renminbi. The exchange rate between Hong Kong dollars and United States dollars is pegged and the exchange rate between Renminbi and Hong Kong dollars has been very steady over the past few years. During the nine months ended 30th September, 2004, the Group normally used the receipts from customers and bank loans to pay its suppliers and meet its capital requirements. These are denominated in the local currency of the place in which its subsidiaries and joint ventures operate. The Group does not currently engage in hedging to manage possible exchange rate risk as the Group considers the cost associated with such hedging arrangements would exceed the benefits. However, management will continue to monitor the relevant circumstances and will take such measures as it deems prudent.

The average outstanding days of the Group's accounts receivable was maintained at below 60 days.

Contingent liabilities

At 30th September, 2004, the Group had contingent liabilities totalling HK$13.1 million (31st December, 2003: HK$4.5 million) in respect of bank guarantees given to independent third parties in the ordinary course of business to ensure the due performance and the observance of the obligations of a subsidiary and a jointly controlled entity to certain agreements.

The salary and benefit levels of the Group's employees are kept at a market competitive level and employees are rewarded on a performance related basis. Staff benefits, including medical coverage and provident funds are also provided to employees. In addition, training and development programmes are provided on an ongoing basis. Social, sporting and recreational activities were arranged during the period for employees.

The Group has adopted a share option scheme whereby selected employees of the Group may be granted share options to subscribe for shares of the Company for the purpose of recognising the contribution made by such employees and retaining the services of the employees who will continue to make a valuable contribution to the Group. These options were granted on 14th August, 2002 and the outstanding balance was 15,798,000 being approximately 1.85% of issued share capital of the Company as at 30th September, 2004.
