

We live in times of continual change. New creations, new perspectives and new environments are shaped every day. The universal search for quality, however, is constant. That is why while we embrace innovation, we remain steadfast in our standards and values. HKEx works not just to secure a market of success for today, but to create a market of lasting value for many years to come.