REGULATORY OVERVIEW

LAWS AND REGULATIONS RELATING TO TRANSFER PRICING IN HONG KONG

Pursuant to Section 20A of the Inland Revenue Ordinance (Chapter 112 of the Laws of Hong Kong) (“IRO”), a non-Hong Kong resident person shall be chargeable to tax either directly or in the name of his agent in respect of all his profits arising in or derived from Hong Kong from any trade, profession or business carried on in Hong Kong whether such agent has the receipt of the profits or not, and the tax so charged whether directly or in the name of the agent shall be recoverable by all means provided in IRO out of the assets of the non-resident person or from the agent. The Inland Revenue Department (“IRD”) may also make transfer pricing adjustments by disallowing expenses incurred by Hong Kong resident under sections 16(1), 17(1)(b) and 17(1)(c) of IRO. Assessors of the IRD are also empowered to disregard certain transactions or dispositions if they are of the opinion that the transactions or dispositions are artificial or fictitious under section 61 of the IRO. With regard to a transaction which has, or would have had the effect of conferring a tax benefit on a person, under section 61A of the IRO, an assistant commissioner of the IRD, having regard to the background and effect of the transaction, has the power to assess the liability to tax of the relevant person as if the transaction or any part thereof had not been entered into or carried out or in such other manner as the assistant commissioner considers appropriate to counteract the tax benefit which would otherwise be obtained.

In 2009, the IRD released Departmental Interpretation and Practice Notes No.45 (“DIPN 45”) and No.46 (“DIPN 46”). DIPN 45 provides that where double taxation arises as a result of transfer pricing adjustments made by the tax authorities of another country, a Hong Kong taxpayer may potentially claim relief under the treaty between Hong Kong and that country (countries entered into tax arrangements with Hong Kong includes the PRC). DIPN 46 provides clarifications and guidance on the IRD’s views on transfer pricing and how it intends to apply the existing provisions of the Inland Revenue Ordinance to establish whether related parties are transacting at arm’s length prices.

On 13 July 2018, the Inland Revenue (Amendment) (No. 6) Ordinance 2018 (“Amendment Ordinance No.6”) was gazette and become effective. The Amendment Ordinance No. 6 introduces provisions for a statutory transfer pricing regime and for transfer pricing documentation in Hong Kong. According to the Amendment Ordinance No.6, where a transaction between two related persons does not comply with the arm’s length principle and has created tax advantage, the IRD is empowered to adjust the profits or losses of that person. The major provisions under the Amendment Ordinance No. 6 start to apply for years of assessment commencing from 1 April 2018.
