The general and administrative expenses for the Period amounted to approximately HK$3,124,000, representing a decrease by approximately HK$1,675,000 as compared with that for the Corresponding Period, which was mainly due to lower depreciation charge, staff costs (including directors’ emoluments) and investment management fee.

BUSINESS REVIEW AND PROSPECTS

The global economy remained challenging in 2024. Although the national elections in some countries have concluded, global uncertainties were still present.

The U.S. Federal Reserve Board (the “U.S. Federal Reserve”) started the interest rate cut cycle. The U.S. Federal Reserve announced to lower the interest rate for 0.5% in September 2024 and 0.25% in November 2024, respectively and considered to further lower the interest rate in December 2024.

In China, there was a signal of rebound in the real estate sector after the Chinese central government has implemented stimulus measures to restore the industry confidence. It is anticipated that the Chinese central government will continue to implement further measures to stimulate and support the economy.

However, the prolonged tense China-U.S. relation, attributed to new sanctions and restrictive measures imposed by the U.S. Government on various Chinese companies and businesses.

In addition, geopolitical conflicts persisted. The ongoing conflict between Russia and Ukraine has continuously caused supply chain issues for businesses worldwide. The Israeli-Palestinian conflict occurred more than 1 year, which also affects the stability of global supply chain.

The worsened external economic environment and interest rate hikes continued to pose pressure on Hong Kong’s stock market for the first half of 2024. However, after the announcement of interest rate cuts in the U.S. and stimulus measures in China, the Hang Seng Index rose to a closing point of 21,134 at the end of September 2024 which marked the 1-year high and subsequently retreated in October 2024.

Looking ahead, the Hong Kong economy is expected to show a continuation of vulnerabilities in 2024. According to the statistics published by the Government of Hong Kong, the Hong Kong economy continued to improve moderately in the third quarter of 2024. Real GDP resumed year-on-year growth of 1.8% in the third quarter of 2024, but reduced by 1.1% on a seasonally adjusted quarter-to-quarter comparison. The private consumption expenditure reduced by 1.3% year-on-year in real terms in the third quarter of 2024.

During the six months period ended 30 September 2024, the Company invested in several short term U.S. Treasury positions and other debt securities for the purpose of earning returns of lower risks for the Company.

Despite the volatility of the worldwide economy and investment market, the Board continued to adopt a relatively cautious approach for any investments and business development and has been closely monitoring the business and industry development of potential investment targets. Going forward, the Board shall continue to stay well informed of global economic and investment market trends and examine the Hong Kong market situation vigilantly in order to make necessary adjustments to the investment strategies as and when appropriate.
