The board (the "Board") of directors (the "Directors") of the Company wishes to inform shareholders of the Company (the "Shareholders") and potential investors that, based on its preliminary review of the latest unaudited management accounts of the Company for the six months ended 30 June 2026 (the "Reporting Period") and other information currently available, for the Reporting Period, the Company is expected to:

The Board believes that the expected increase in revenue and net profit for the Reporting Period is primarily attributable to:

(i) demand for alternatives to high-end analog chips continues to grow, and the Company continues to serve key customers across the broader industrial sector by leveraging its long-established high-quality industrial product portfolio. With the steady expansion of product categories, the Company has steadily increased its market share in the high-end industrial analog chip sector; and

(ii) benefiting from the Company's semi-automated chip design approach based on machine learning, its in-house research and development platform continues to unlock cost advantages and efficiency gains in the design process. The Company closely aligns with customer needs, continuously strengthens its differentiated competitive barriers and translates these into steadily growing profitability.
