(III) Details of and Reasons for Changes in Major Accounting Data and Financial Indicators

√Applicable □Not applicable

| Item | Change (%) | Main reason |
|---|---|---|
| Revenue_Reporting Period | 100.25 | Mainly attributable to: (1) Demand side: Benefiting from multiple factors including the recovery of domestic demand, the accelerated overseas expansion of photovoltaic and energy storage/automotive sectors, and the surging demand for AI computing power infrastructure, downstream customer demand in fields such as automotive electronics, server power supplies, photovoltaics and energy storage, and industrial automation grew rapidly, leading to a substantial increase in shipments of the Company's relevant products; (2) Product side: The Company continuously aligned its product R&D with downstream application scenarios, resulting in the steady enrichment of its semiconductor products and solutions portfolio, a continuous increase in marketable product models, and a steady expansion in sales scale; and (3) Market side: The strategic expansion of the Company's overseas business continued to advance, with the revenue contribution from overseas customers steadily increasing. |
| Revenue_From the beginning of the year to the end of Reporting Period | 78.66 | |
| Total profit_Reporting Period | Not Applicable | Mainly attributable to: On one hand, simultaneous improvements on both the revenue and expense fronts: (1) Revenue front: The growth in customer demand, the enrichment of the product portfolio, and the continuous expansion of overseas business drove substantial growth in the Company's shipments and revenue; (2) Expense front: The Company continuously deepened lean management and organizational efficiency, resulting in a decline in the proportion of overall expenses to revenue, which pushed forward the improvement of profitability;On the other hand, the Company generated a significant amount of gain from changes in fair value through its indirect equity investment via private equity funds. As this portion of gain from changes in fair value was non-recurring in nature, the net loss attributable to shareholders of the Company, net of non-recurring gain or loss from the beginning of the year to the end of Reporting Period remained. However, the net profit attributable to shareholders of the Company, net of non-recurring gain or loss for the third quarter of 2026 turned positive. |
